Maine Senior Medicare Patrol

About Us

The Maine Senior Medicare Patrol (SMP) is a statewide program to educate Maine Medicare beneficiaries, their families, and caregivers about Medicare benefits and how to prevent, detect, and report health care fraud, errors, and abuse. The Maine SMP works with the Maine Department of Health and Human Services-Office of Aging and Disability Services, the Area Agencies on Aging (AAA's), and Legal Services for Maine Elders (LSE) and provides outreach, education, and counseling statewide. Volunteers at each AAA provide presentations, work one-on-one with Medicare beneficiaries and provide program support. For more information about the Maine SMP, click here for our fact sheet.

If you have questions about your Medicare statement, need assistance with billing issues, suspect healthcare fraud, errors or abuse, would like to schedule a presentation for your community group or organization, or have an interest in volunteering, contact the Maine SMP at your local AAA at 1-877-353-3771.

The Maine SMP is funded by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Community Living and is one of 54 programs nationwide. For more information about the national SMP Program, please visit <https://www.smpresource.org/Content/What-SMPs-Do.aspx>.

Volunteering

Volunteer opportunities are available with the Maine State Health Insurance Program (SHIP) and the Maine Senior Medicare Patrol (SMP). Working together, these programs provide a variety of volunteer opportunities to help educate and assist Mainers with a variety of Medicare issues and help beneficiaries, their families, and caregivers to prevent health care errors, fraud and abuse. Here are some of the opportunities that may be available in your area:

Assisting with administration: Help with work such as copying, filing, data entry and placing phone calls in support of SMP activity.

Distributing information: Help with transporting and disseminating SMP information materials to sites and events; may include presenting prepared copy or performing scripted activities for small groups.

Staffing exhibits: Help by staffing information booths or exhibits at events such as health fairs; also may provide general information about SMP to the public and answer simple questions.

Making group presentations: Help by giving presentations on SMP topics to small and large groups; may interact with the audience by answering questions and through discussion.

Counseling: Help by having direct conversations with Medicare beneficiaries about their individual situations; may include review of personal information such as Medicare Summary Notices, billing statements, and other related financial and health documents.

What's New

Learn how to prevent, detect, and report Medicare fraud, errors, and abuse: Prevent Medicare Fraud

Medicare Fraud 101

According to Government estimates, Medicare lost $52 billion to fraud, abuse and improper billing in FY2017. Medicare fraud typically involves rogue health care providers or medical suppliers who bill the program for services, equipment or medication that they don't actually provide, or else inflate the cost of those items. Some will even falsify patients' diagnoses to justify unnecessary tests, surgeries and other procedures or write prescriptions for patients they've never examined. Others use genuine patient information, sometimes obtained through identity theft, to create fake claims.

One of the most effective ways to combat Medicare fraud is to review your Medicare statements and make sure the dates and services listed are correct. If something doesn't look right, call your medical provider's office.

Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam.

Free Medicare Device Scam

One tell-tale sign that should make every consumer suspicious is when something is offered "for free." These free offer scams are often associated with Medicare. The program spends around $6 billion a year on medical devices, and a market this big draws scammers. In a medical equipment scam, someone reaches out with an offer of a "free" brace, wheelchair or other device. All they need is your Medicare number. Once they have it, scammers can use it to bill the government for devices and services that aren't needed.

Medicare fraud results in higher deductibles and copays for Medicare beneficiaries, and can even put affected patients at risk. Be suspicious of unsolicited free offers and never give out your Medicare number to anyone who isn't a trusted health care provider.

Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam.

Becky From Medicare

For the past few months thousands of robocalls have been hitting U.S. phone lines claiming to be "Becky, from Medicare." And trust us, this is a conversation you'll want to skip.

A target will receive a prerecorded call from "Becky from Medicare" and is asked to press 1 to talk to a representative to learn about free genetic testing. For those who interact with Becky (or one of her friendly colleagues), she'll claim they are eligible for genetic testing to screen for diseases that Medicare will pay for. They will ask for the target's Medicare number and mailing address to send a test kit with instructions.

This is a scam, pure and simple. All these crooks want is your Medicare number so they can bill Medicare for tests, devices - whatever their flavor of the day. These fraudulent charges cost Medicare billions each year.

To protect yourself - and save taxpayer dollars - only share your Medicare number with trusted health care providers; calls out of the blue for free resources from Medicare are scams - full stop.
